I Want to be a Bridge is an exhibition that features Rahime's print collections dated as early as 1974. Get to know Rahime's vision as a print enthusiast, through his journey; not just as a collector but as a mover and shaker of printmaking practice in this country. AP. Art Gallery take you back in time through his permanent collections, his initiatives in glorifying the art of printmaking by providing a complete print studio, commenced apprenticeship programme as well as launching his dream, A.P Studio; a press house.

Other programme such as sharing session by senior artists, art tour and introduction to art class for children. Unknowingly, Rahime's admirable vision to bring the art of printmaking to the next level has bridged the gap that is much needed and valued by the industry. Hence shows the impact that he brought to the local printmaking scene with the current generation.
